DESCRIZIONE

Objectives

This topic aims to pilot the European Startup and Scaleup Hubs (ESSH) by creating two cross-border networks of leading and emerging innovation hubs anchored in strong research, technology and higher-education ecosystems. The action seeks to help European deep-tech startups and scaleups grow into globally competitive companies by improving access to research, talent, corporate partners, investors, infrastructures, facilities, mentoring and entrepreneurial education.

The initiative also aims to strengthen regional innovation cohesion by connecting established hubs with less-connected ecosystems, increasing cross-border market expansion and attracting more public and private investment into European deep-tech ventures. Particular attention should be given to women-led startups and scaleups and to companies supported by the European Innovation Council .

Funding

Funding is provided under a Horizon Europe Programme Cofund Action . The topic has an indicative budget of €40 million , with two projects or hub networks expected to receive approximately €20 million each . The EU contribution covers up to 50% of eligible costs , meaning that each consortium must secure the remaining co-financing from participating organisations or other public or private sources. The action may also provide financial support to third parties, with support of up to €60,000 per startup or scaleup , subject to the conditions established in the call.
