DESCRIZIONE

Objectives

This topic aims to integrate climate-related exposures into human exposome research and improve understanding of how climate change modifies the combined chemical, physical, biological, nutritional, psychosocial and behavioural exposures experienced throughout life. Projects should generate evidence on how these interacting exposures affect disease burden and health outcomes, helping researchers, healthcare professionals and policymakers identify emerging risks, vulnerable populations and appropriate prevention or adaptation measures. The topic also seeks to make reliable, FAIR exposome information accessible to the public, supporting healthier, climate-resilient and nature-positive behaviours.

Funding

Funding is provided under a Horizon Europe Research and Innovation Action (RIA). The topic has an indicative budget of €45 million, with the European Commission expecting to fund four projects. The expected EU contribution ranges between €10 million and €11 million per project, although proposals requesting different amounts may be considered where appropriately justified. As an RIA, the action may receive funding of up to 100% of eligible costs, in accordance with Horizon Europe rules. The call follows a single-stage procedure, opening on 29 October 2026 and closing on 17 February 2027.
