DESCRIÇÃO

Objectives

This call aims to advance microbiome research for terrestrial livestock sustainability and health within a One Health approach, which recognizes the interconnectedness of animal, human, and environmental health. The objective is to develop microbiome-based solutions that improve livestock health and productivity, reduce antimicrobial use, and minimize environmental impacts. The call targets research communities, farmers, the livestock industry (including breeders and service providers), and policymakers. Proposals should foster cross-disciplinary collaboration among veterinarians, microbiologists, geneticists, animal and plant biologists, epidemiologists, ecologists, and other relevant experts. Eligible applicants include consortia of legal entities from EU Member States and Associated Countries, as defined in the Horizon Europe rules.

Funding

The support is provided as a non-refundable grant (lump sum) under the Horizon Europe Research and Innovation Actions (RIA). The funding rate is up to 100% of eligible costs. The EU contribution per project is expected to be between 5.000.000 and 6.000.000 EUR, with a total topic budget of 11.800.000 EUR. Two projects are expected to be funded under this call.
